

August 27, 2013, 2:49 p.m. ET

Where Is the 'Diversity' in College History Programs?

Letters in The Wall Street Journal Howard Zinn, left-wing views only, diversity, "A people's History of the U.S."

Zinn's art of victimhood reflects Karl Marx's basic ideology. Lack of success or measures of success in life are attributed to capitalist villains. Personal responsibility falls outside the lexicon of social justice. The "cure" for the human condition and life's inequities is surrender to a conformist police state. "Free everything" trumps individual initiative and effort.

Charles Battig

Charlottesville, Va.